Spared the full wrath of Hurricane Katrina's winds and water, St. Charles and St. John the Baptist parishes nonetheless saw a flood of evacuees, fender-benders and tax dollars in the months after the storm.

Residents of harder-hit parishes crowded into relatives' homes in the River Parishes and the influx made housing scarce and pricey.

BATON ROUGE -- Despite complaints that the Road Home program's application includes needlessly intrusive questions about an applicant's financial status, the form as of Monday evening had not been changed to make clear that people do not have to respond to those questions.

But state officials, as well as representatives of ICF International, the firm said Monday that applicants should know that the very detailed asset and income information is only optional.

...Celotex called Dr. Robert Jones, also a specialist in lung diseases. He examined Hartman once and agreed that his chest X-rays showed evidence of damage due to asbestos exposure, but disputed whether that damage had reached a stage where it could properly be diagnosed as pneumoconiosis. He further stated that in his opinion, Hartman's condition had not been exacerbated by exposure to dusts at Celotex. This opinion was based on information as to the silica, talc and mica levels at Celotex supplied to him by Dr. Yehia Hammad, an industrial hygienist. First Circuit.

GAF CORPORATION, et al.
No. 97 CW 1024.

Plaintiffs, surviving spouse and children of individual who died from lung cancer, brought products liability action against cigarette manufacturers and sellers and asbestos manufacturers, suppliers, and installers. The Nineteenth Judicial District Court, Parish of East Baton Rouge, No. 383,701-C, Bob H.
Hester, J., granted partial summary judgment to cigarette defendants. Plaintiffs appealed. The Court of Appeal, Kuhn, J., held that: (1) exposure rule was applicable to determine whether Louisiana Products Liability Act (LPLA) or pre-LPLA law applied, and (2) plaintiffs would have opportunity to introduce additional evidence to meet new summary judgment standard.
Vacated and remanded.
