Usage Consolidation Task Force Report

By and large, Ebsco’s Usage Consolidation service is seen as a useful product. The consolidation of the statistics from various sources is quite helpful in preparing reports for various accreditation reports. The input of local collection information is tedious and time-consuming but is helpful once it is completed.

A major issue to some users is the lack of JSTORE database reports being included. Since JSTOR use is fairly significant for many libraries, this is a concern.

The time saved when using this reporting mechanism is worth the price.
